Group Tasting Policies and Guidelines

As you can probably tell from the calls you are making to schedule your wine tasting day, many wineries have had problems with groups in their tasting room. We have chosen to continue to take group reservations, and we look forward to hosting your wine tasting. We have given a lot of thought to how to do this most effectively, and these policies and guidelines are the result. We provide a delightful tasting experience when you understand and agree to our policies and guidelines up front. We encourage you to share this with all members of your group.

We cannot serve anyone who is visibly intoxicated. This is regardless of whether you are driving, bicycling, riding a camel, crawling, or on a bus or limo. As we greet you at the door, our servers will make this judgment call. Help us help you! Loud voices, talking constantly, ignoring the server, slurring your words, stumbling and weaving – these are all signs that we need to refuse service. Our decision is final if we decline to serve members of your group. Tasting fees will not be refunded if we decide you may not be served.

- For all groups with a confirmed reservation date and time, your total tasting fee will be charged 2 weeks prior to your tasting (less the deposit charged to reserve your spot on the calendar). If your group is over 20 we will also charge a $100.00 deposit.
- If you are late by more than 10 minutes, we may not honor your reservation, and your tasting fees and damage deposit are forfeited. Please call us if your schedule is falling behind, and we will do our very best to work with you to accommodate changes.
- Underage members of a group will be refused entrance to our facility. In no event may underage members be served wine, either by our staff or by other members of your group.
- If your total group is more than 20, we will limit the number of people who can come into the winery and taste at one time, depending upon our staffing and other reservations. Once the first group has finished their tasting, the next group may come in. Other than the group tasting, no one else will come inside the building, or stand in the entrance way. The only space available to socialize, eat, or drink is outside on the lawn. This is regardless of the weather.
- Our winery is a small place, and we do our best to accommodate both small groups of 2 – 4 people, and larger groups. Please remember to use your “inside voices” within your group, and please listen when your server is speaking. If your group’s noise level impacts other guests, your tasting will end, with no refund. We also give our servers permission to stop your tasting if members of your group are walking away from the tasting area, texting or phoning, talking among yourselves, or otherwise indicating a lack of interest in the wines.
- All wine purchases must be kept with the receipt, or marked as sold.
- We will not open bottles of wine or provide cups. You must bring your own opener or purchase a corkscrew. If you need plastic cups, we will have them available for sale.
- Groups over 20: your $100 damage deposit will be refunded when your group leader checks in before you leave, IF all behavior has been appropriate, all garbage is picked up, and no glasses are missing.

Please sign below that you understand all the above guidelines and will follow them without questions! We look forward to hosting your group at Standing Stone Vineyards.
