Donation and Event Request Guidelines 2017

Thank you so much for thinking of Standing Stone Vineyards to participate in your upcoming fundraiser or otherwise support your charitable event or cause. We are passionate about supporting our local charities with donations of wine, staff time and auction items for fundraising events. Please understand, however, that we are inundated with many requests from worthy organizations each week, and, sadly, we just cannot fill them all. Here are some general guidelines we have in place to help us to fairly evaluate each request.

Please review these Guidelines before contacting us, and if you are requesting something outside of our guidelines, please save your time and don't even ask. You may email a two to three sentence description of your event or request to ssvny@standingstonewines.com. If it is something we are interested in pursuing further, we will reach back out to you to request additional information in our Donation request form. Again, please save your time and skip the follow up phone calls.

Guidelines For Event Participation and Charitable Contributions:

Preference will be given to organizations that closely fit our chosen charitable missions.

We prefer to support organizations that support health care, especially Alzheimer's research, as well as organizations that support education and research about wine and food quality and education.

We never provide door prizes or drinks for parties, class reunions, school graduation parties, and similar types of events.

We do not participate in off site wine festivals, even if wine can be sold.

We do not provide support of wine, staff or auction items for any fundraising for underage people who cannot enjoy our products.

We do not make monetary donations.

Our support of events is limited to New York State with very few exceptions.

More information:

Please respect our time and our business. Our staff is instructed to direct requests for donations to the website, and they have been cautioned that their job does not include learning about your organization and its needs.

Our staff does not take messages or return calls about donation and event participation requests, as their focus is on our customers and their experience.
